NORTH CAROLINA
EXECUTIVE DEVELOPMENT INSTITUTE

The Executive Development Institute is a forward-looking general management program that stretches participants beyond their current capabilities, as a challenging group of peers led by an expert faculty team generates a dynamic learning experience.

Who Should Attend

The program is designed for functional managers and business team leaders who want to strengthen their cross-functional skills and gain a more strategic understanding of the business. Participants usually have seven to ten years of experience in positions of increasing responsibility, and come from areas such as R& D, product or service design, logistics, manufacturing, service delivery, marketing, sales, finance, accounting, planning, human resources, legal affairs, information system, and corporate communications.

Program Highlights

- Prepare for future leadership roles in the organization while enhancing current managerial effectiveness;
- Adapt to global and domestic forces that affect the achievement of business goals;
- Hone strategic decision-making skills for a dynamic and competitive environment; and
- Improve bottom-line outcomes through the implementation of new ideas and concepts.

Offerings: Two-week session, twice annually

Contact: Katie Finn Telephone: 919-962-1531; 800-862-3932
Kenan-Flagler Business School
The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
Executive Education
Campus Box 3445, Rizzo Center
Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3445 (Raleigh AP)
Fax: 919-962-1667
E-mail: unc_exec@unc.edu
Web site: www.kenan-flagler.unc.edu

Program Dates: March 22-April 3, 2009; October 18 -30, 2009
Cost: $16,000 – 2008; 2009 TBD; 20% discount per person for two or more people
Includes tuition, books, materials, lodging, (including night before program starts), and meals, (except Sunday).
Application Deadline: Six weeks prior to start of session. Participation is highly restricted.